

Smoke Watch 14.7.2012

Posted Sun Jul 15, 2012 8:56 pm

We had had recent rain; green waste was being burnt.

The smoke could be seen near the ground at breathing height and heading for the old people's village.

There was another green pile down the block. I am not sure if this was burnt or not.

Why would these people burn when they can load their green waste onto a trailer or ute and take it to the green waste station at Exeter just 10 minutes away...like we do!

Nobody would be exposed to harmful toxins if the burners spared a thought for others.

Nobody is exempt from our environmental laws; they must be enforced in a situation like this.
