

Smokewatch 2.5.2010

Sun May 02, 2010 9:51 pm

I nearly drove past Brady's Lookout as it looked fairly clear to the north, but as I got out of the car my nose detected strong wood smoke. It was putrid, foul in fact where I was and no place for me. Not too good for the tourists pulling in either.

This was a repeat of yesterday. Large burning going on somewhere and the Exeter monitoring station not recording the indicative PM2.5s for some reason.

These shots were taken just on midday.

Some smoke was hanging around the town of Exeter and it covered the hills to the north.

P1010130a.jpg (259.26 KiB)

Smoke was out to the west

P1010131a.jpg (223.11 KiB)

Another shot to the west picked up what I was looking for. Lots of smoke in the distance, coming right up through all the trees to the foreground....and me.

P1010132a.jpg (259.69 KiB)

Re: Smokewatch 2.5.2010

by Shirley on Mon May 03, 2010 11:46 am

Disgusting!

Apparently the Forestry wants to keep the place all to themselves instead of having tourists complaining of the stench.

When are the people there going to revolt and take back the air???