

Smokewatch 24.3.2010

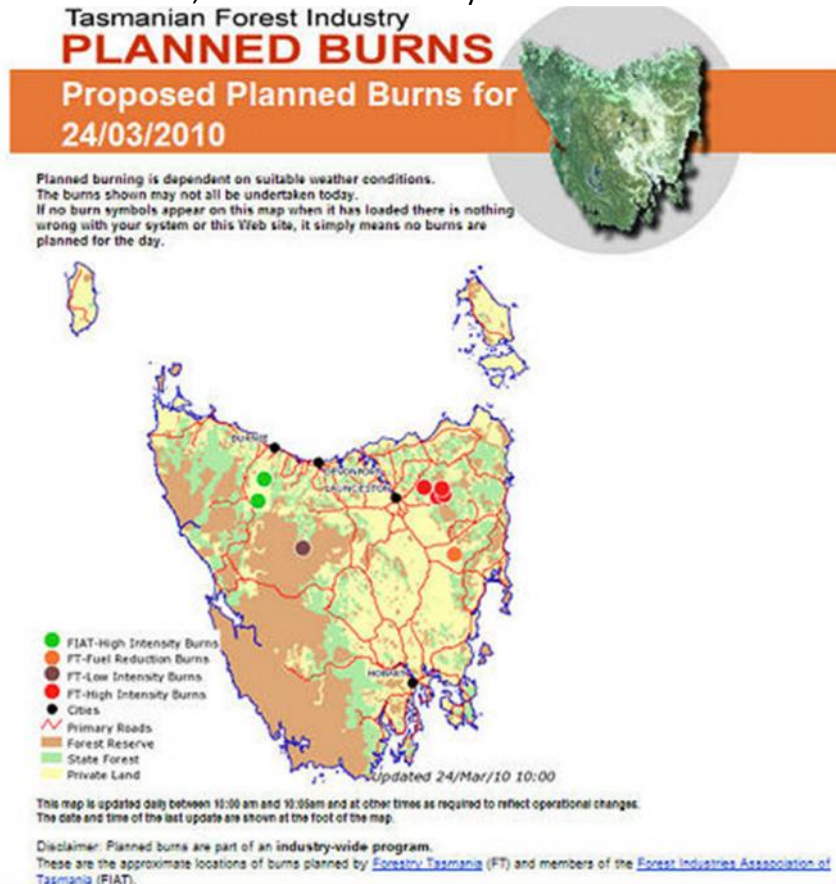

Wed Mar 24, 2010 10:29 pm

Smoke smell was in the air. Visible smoke was in the valley leading up from Exeter to Grindelwald.

Looking N/W from Bardy's lookout you could see the smoke coming in on a westerly wind. Looking S/E you could see the coloured toxic muck filling the sky all around Launceston and over the mountains.

Either the wind had changed direction for smoke to be coming in from the eastern burns, or the smoke was coming from the three fires to the west.

No matter what, the smoke as far as you could see around Launceston had joined up.
